Safety? Item

I mentioned in an earlier newsletter that I would touch upon safety issues from time to time. This item is more of an observation that a safety “rule”. Many times in a speed type of handgun match, such as a pin match, I have noticed shooters reloading a revolver and attempting to drop the empties directly from the gun into a can or other container. There is no rule against this practice, but I do question the wisdom of the action. While you are making sure the cases fall into the container it is easy to ignore the direction of your muzzle. I know the action is open (assuming you haven’t started swinging the gun over the can before you swing out the cylinder) but pointing the muzzle in an unsafe position at any time is never a good thing. This habit is also costing you time! Remember these reloads are on the clock. What you want to do is get the empties out of the gun and loaded rounds in as fast as safety allows. Tip the gun up and drop 60 cents worth of brass on the ground. After your 4 tables you put away your gun, let other people set pins, and casually pick up your brass. Someone will probably help you, and in the worse case you will not find 10% of your cases. If you reload on every table that is a cost of 24 cents for each stage and you will probably shave 2 or 3 seconds off each reload. Just a thought, take it for what it is worth.

2010 Scheduling Meeting

The 2010 Scheduling Meeting will be held at the range at 10 am on Nov. 7, 2009. This is an important meeting as this is the time when we schedule, (or not schedule), the various matches for next year. Several current range officers have indicated that they would not be available to run particular matches next year. If you regularly shoot a particular match, why not volunteer to run it. Your commitment is usually for 6 matches, and if something comes up, ask someone to run it for you. ROing a match is not that difficult. Generally you will have several regulars to help you set up, record scores, and tear down. Any of us that currently run matches would give you advice. You will be helping the club, getting yourself more involved, and insuring that your favorite match will continue.
